Synopsis: In a far village somewhere in Timor Loro Sae's mountains, a night bright as day is the background of the fight between the forces of Destruction and Love. A vision of horror, rotten corpses, and a force that enchants and involves squeezes the soul of who is looking at it. This war agitates the earth, exorcises the birds and brings down the Moon to the plane.

Nuno Amorim

Born in April, 1952. With his background in architecture, worked as an art director in FCB and Publicis Advertising Agencies, moving afterwards to RTP, Portuguese public television, where he began as a graphic designer, then as director and was afterwards head of the graphic department. There, he wrote and directed several short animation films, documentaries and cultural series, being also responsible for a large part of the motion graphics produced by RTP from 1985 to 1998.
Started Animais AVPL production company in 1991, where he is currently director and producer.
